Activity

Nanobiotix's revenue during the first quarter of 2016 corresponds to the upfront payment (pro-rata share) from Taiwan-based PharmaEngine. This is within the framework of the licensing contract signed in August 2012 for the development and commercialization of the lead NanoXray product, NBTXR3 in the Asia-Pacific region. The upfront payment amounted €810,640 and, as before, is distributed using the straight-line method of apportioning the revenue across the period between the date the contract was signed and the scheduled marketing launch in the region. In total, revenue for the Q1 amounted to €45,847 over the period which is fully in line with Company's expectations.

On January 4, 2016, the Company announced that the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) had approved the Company's Investigational New Drug (IND) application. This allows Nanobiotix to launch its first clinical study in the US for its lead product NBTXR3 in prostate cancer, a new and very significant indication. With the addition of this prostate cancer trial, NBTXR3 is now tested in a total of six indications.

On January 5, 2016, Nanobiotix started a new research program in immuno-oncology with its lead product NBTXR3. The first preclinical results are expected later this year. These preclinical results should establish the proof of concept for potential combination of NBTXR3 with immuno-oncology approaches across oncology and could open new perspectives for potential deals.

Moreover, On March 11, 2016, the Company successfully completed a €21.3 million private placement of new ordinary shares. The new ordinary shares were issued primarily with life sciences specialist investors, the majority of which are from the United States.
